SUMMARY OF RULES AFFECTING THIS FORM

There are many tax rules regulating the movement of money out of an IRA. This form contains a brief summary of some of these rules. See the Roth IRA Disclosure Statement for a more detailed and complete discussion of these rules.

REASON FOR THE WITHDRAWAL

We are required to report the reason for your withdrawal to the IRS. We rely on the information you provide us on this form in assigning an IRS code to a withdrawal. If you are withdrawing money for more than one reason, then complete a separate form for each withdrawal reason.

A direct transfer is a transaction in which our financial organization sends the money directly to the trustee or custodian of another Roth IRA. For a direct transfer to another Roth IRA, check box 1. (This transaction will not be reported to the IRS, and it will not create taxable income for you.) For a direct transfer to an IRA for someone other than the original IRA owner, you should also check one of the three lettered boxes under box 1 and insert the name of the person identified with an asterisk.

For a withdrawal of a contribution and the income attributable to it before the early withdrawal deadline:

- For a withdrawal in the year in which the contribution was made, check box 2 and write the income attributable on the blank line.
- For a withdrawal in the following year, check box 3 and write the income attributable on the blank line.
- For an account that was revoked within seven days, check box 4, 5, or 6. Write the income attributable on the blank line if you check box 4 or 5.

For any other withdrawal by the original owner (including a withdrawal of a contribution after the early withdrawal deadline), check box 7 or 8. If you check box 8, also check box "a" if it is true in your situation.

- If you check boxes 8 and "a," we will report the withdrawal as IRS code Q. If you check only box 8, we will report it as IRS code T.
- The tax laws define "disability" as being unable to engage in any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determined physical or mental impairment that can be expected to result in death, or to be of long continued and indefinite duration.

For a withdrawal by a beneficiary following the original owner's death, check box 9. If you check box 9, also check box "b" if it is true in your situation. Write your name and Social Security number on the blank lines, and sign this form on the "IRA Owner's Signature" line.

- If you check boxes 9 and "b," we will report the withdrawal as IRS code Q. If you only check box 9, we will report the withdrawal as IRS code T.

For a withdrawal as a result of a federal tax levy, check box 10.

Note that withholding does not apply in the case of distributions properly coded "Q" and withdrawals of contributions before the early withdrawal deadline when there is no income attributable. If this is the case, elect no withholding.

MOVING MONEY TO ANOTHER ROTH IRA

The original owner can use a direct transfer or a rollover to move the money to a Roth IRA in the owner's name. Following a divorce, the original owner's former spouse can only use a direct transfer to move the money to a Roth IRA in the former spouse's name. Following the original owner's death, the owner's spouse can use a direct transfer or a rollover to move the money to a Roth IRA in the spouse's name. Following the original owner's death, any beneficiary can only use a direct transfer to move the money to a Roth IRA in the name of the original owner for the benefit of the beneficiary. All of these transactions are tax-free.

Direct transfer. You should set up the Roth IRA that will receive the direct transfer before completing this form. After doing this, check box 1 to start a direct transfer to this other IRA. Anyone other than the original owner should check one of the three lettered boxes under box 1 and insert his or her name on the blank line.

Rollover. Only the original owner and the surviving spouse can use a rollover. Check box 7, 8, or 9 when making the withdrawal, and then contribute the money to another Roth IRA within 60 days. Effective for distributions taken on or after January 1, 2015, you are permitted to roll over only one distribution from an IRA (Traditional, Roth, or SIMPLE) in a 12-month period, regardless of the number of IRAs you own.

CHANGING CONTRIBUTIONS Before Early Withdrawal Deadline

Recharacterize the contribution. If you could have originally made a contribution to a traditional IRA, then you can recharacterize that Roth IRA contribution (and the income attributable to it) as a contribution to a traditional IRA prior to the recharacterization deadline described below. Use the Roth IRA Contribution Recharacterization (Form 2419R) instead of this form.

Withdrawal before the early withdrawal deadline. You may withdraw any contribution before the early withdrawal deadline described below. You must also withdraw the income attributable to the contribution. You are not required to pay the excess contribution penalty tax if you make such a withdrawal. To use this approach, check box 2 or 3, and:

- Compute the income attributable to the contribution using the IRS formula.
- Add the income attributable to the amount of the withdrawn contribution and write the answer to this addition on the "Total Withdrawal Amount" line.

- Write the income attributable to the contribution on the blank line at box 2 or 3.

Early withdrawal and recharacterization deadline. The deadline for recharacterizing or withdrawing a contribution is normally the deadline for filing your federal tax return for the year for which the contribution was made, including extensions. The deadline for withdrawing a regular contribution made from January 1 through the tax return deadline, which is attributed to the previous year, is the tax return deadline for the year to which the contribution was attributed. If you timely filed your federal income tax return for the year, then your deadline is automatically extended to six months after the deadline for filing your federal tax return for the year (not including other extensions). For calendar year taxpayers, this is October 15 or the next business day if October 15 is on a weekend.

Handling Excess Contributions After Early Withdrawal Deadline

Apply an excess to a future year. A Roth IRA contribution which exceeds the amount authorized by the tax laws (a true excess) is automatically attributed as a regular Roth contribution to the next available year or years if the excess is not removed. The first available year is the next year in which the total of your regular Roth and traditional IRA contributions for that year are less than the annual contribution limit for that year. If the excess is not eliminated in the first available year, then the remaining excess is carried forward until it is applied to a subsequent available year. The income attributable stays in the IRA. You will be liable for a 6% tax on the amount of the excess contribution in the IRA at the end of each calendar year until the excess has been fully attributed to one or more future years. You may be required to file amended tax returns to reflect the excess contribution tax and the attribution of the contribution to a future year. To use this approach, you do NOT withdraw money from your Roth IRA, so you should NOT complete this form.

Withdrawal after early withdrawal deadline. There are no special rules for withdrawing an excess Roth IRA contribution after the early withdrawal deadline (unlike traditional IRA contributions). You can withdraw an excess contribution after the early withdrawal deadline under the normal withdrawal rules, without paying income tax on the amount withdrawn. To use this approach, write the amount of the excess contribution on the "Total Withdrawal Amount" line and check box 7. Under this approach, you do not withdraw the income attributable to the contribution. You will be liable for a 6% tax on the amount of the excess contribution in the IRA at the end of each calendar year until the excess has been removed or fully attributed to one or more future years.

Withholding Notice Information (Form W-4P/OMB No. 1545-0074)

Basic Information About Withholding From Pensions and Annuities. Generally, federal income tax withholding applies to the taxable part of payments made from pension, profit sharing, stock bonus, annuity, and certain deferred compensation plans; from IRAs; and from commercial annuities.

Caution: There may be penalties for not paying enough tax during the year, through either withholding or estimated tax payments. New retirees should see Publication 505, Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax. It explains the estimated tax requirements and penalties in detail. You may be able to avoid quarterly estimated tax payments by having enough tax withheld from your IRA using form W-4P.

Purpose of Form W-4P. Unless you elect otherwise, 10 percent federal income tax will be withheld from payments from individual retirement accounts (IRAs). You can use Form W-4P (or a substitute form, such as this form), provided by the trustee or custodian, to instruct your trustee or custodian to withhold no tax from your IRA payments or to withhold more than 10 percent. This substitute form should be used only for withdrawals from IRAs that are payable upon demand.

Nonperiodic Payments. Payments made from IRAs that are payable upon demand are treated as nonperiodic payments for federal income tax purposes. Generally, nonperiodic payments must have at least 10 percent income tax withheld.

Your election will remain in effect for any subsequent withdrawal unless you change or revoke it.

Payments Delivered Outside of the U.S. A U.S. citizen or resident alien may not waive withholding on any withdrawal delivered outside of the U.S. or its possessions. Withdrawals by a nonresident alien generally are subject to a tax withholding rate of 30 percent. A reduced withholding rate, may apply if there is a tax treaty between the nonresident alien's country of residence and the United States and if the nonresident alien submits Form W-8BEN, Certificate of Foreign Status of Beneficial Owner for United States Tax Withholding, or satisfies the documentation requirements as provided under federal regulations. The Form W-8BEN must contain the foreign person's taxpayer identification number.

For more information, Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities, and Publication 519, U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens, are available on the IRS website at www.irs.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM.

Revoking the Exemption From Withholding. If you want to revoke your previously filed exemption from withholding, file another Form W-4P with the trustee or custodian and check the appropriate box on that form.

Statement of Income Tax Withheld From Your IRA. By January 31 of next year, your trustee or custodian will provide a statement to you and to the IRS showing the total amount of your IRA distributions and the total federal income tax withheld during the year. Copies of Form W-4P will not be sent to the IRS by the trustee or custodian.
